About the Artist

Walter's drawings have evolved from his fascination with maps, public and sub-cultural signs, symbols and obsessive tendencies. His major map project, 'The Island – London Series,' was published by TAG in 2008 and has been the focus of sustained critical acclaim ever since. Under the guise of traditional techniques and Romantic notions of place, his work reveals a myriad of words and symbols. Walter combines history, trivia, personal experience, local knowledge and imaginative additions to creatively explore the contradictions of our modern world. The series has been acquired by major public art collections including the British Library and the Government Art Collection, and a touring show has taken it to venues throughout London at St Pancras Crypt, the V&A, the Courtauld Institute of Art and Chelsea and Westminster Hospital. In 2010 he was one of just two living artists to have work included in 'Magnificent Maps: Power, Propaganda and Art,' an ambitious exhibition at the British Library.

Stephen was commissioned by the London Transport Museum to create a map of the underground systems in the city, for exhibition at their major group exhibition 'Mind the Map' (2012). The piece was published as a limited edition of 50 by TAG Fine Arts.
